PLEASE NOTE

The statements in this newsletter cited as quotes from other newsletters, quarterlies, etc., are quotations and not necessarily fact. I try not to reproduce statements that have been denied as being true and also those statements that are "old news" and have been quoted over a few years.

I would like to remind you that a few extra "paper" copies of all newsletters are filed at the "Ask Us" Desk on the 2nd floor along with the "handouts" summary sheet. Please remember that you can take any of the extra paper copies in the folder. The Newsletter as well as all "handout" summaries for a particular program will be contained in a folder specifically for that program date e.g. Newsletter as well as "handout" summary for program on 1/12/10 are contained in a separate folder. Each program date will have its own folder. If you do not find a copy in the manila "extra" folder, you will have to copy from the permanent file binder. If the staff has trouble finding the folders, please let me know.

More importantly, electronic PDF copies of the Newsletter and the "handouts" summary for our monthly program can be obtained electronically as PDF files from our Library's Genealogy Blog called "Tony's Genealogy Blog at the Schaumburg Township District Library". This is a WordPress blog that you can reach directly at:

<http://genealogywithtony.wordpress.com>

Look on the right side of the blog for links within the "Newsletter" category and the "Program Handouts" category. You can read the material online, download as a PDF file to your computer or print it from the blog.

If anyone needs to contact me via e-mail, you may reach me at the Schaumburg Township District Library at:

akierna@stdl.org

Or if you need to reach me the old fashioned way by phone, please contact me through the Schaumburg Township District Library at 847-923-3390. I now can also be reached by direct FAX at the Schaumburg Township District Library. The FAX number in Reference is 847-923-3335.

I am at the library each Monday, Tuesday (except on program dates) and Wednesday morning from 9:00 AM to 1:00 PM in the Reference Office should you need to meet me to obtain assistance in your research plan. Please let me know in advance if you plan on dropping in on these days so we can schedule a convenient time slot within those hours.

AUGUST 11, 2015 GENEALOGY PROGRAM TOPIC

Our next genealogy program will take place on Tuesday evening, August 11, 2015.

Our guest speaker will be Jeffrey Bockman. Jeffrey will present a program titled "Start Your Digging in 1940: Examine the 1940 Census for Information and Clues".

Examine the 1940 Census for information and clues. Learn how to find them. Use them with: other records, directories, and maps; and to help find living people.

Jeffrey Bockman is an experienced genealogy lecturer & writer. He is the author of Give Your Family A Gift That Money Can't Buy / Record & Preserve Your Family's History, a book that encourages people to record basic information and their interesting family stories, preserve documents, and identify photographs to help pass along their family's history to future generations.

He was a contributing editor for the former Everton's Genealogical Helper and a feature writer for the former Heritage Quest Magazine. His articles have also appeared in various other publications.

You may visit the library's web page at:

to view a Calendar of Events section of the library web page for this program and for many more non-genealogical programs offered by our library.

You can also visit the Genealogy Blog of the library that is authored by Tony Kierna. Visit the blog at <http://genealogywithtony.wordpress.com> for all things related to genealogy and the genealogy programs at the Schaumburg Township District Library.

WELCOME TO ALL NEWCOMERS

Glad you could join us as you embark on a rather adventurous journey into the unknown and far-reaching past! Please see me so I can get to know you and the details of the "journey" you plan to take. Make sure you receive from me a special "newcomer" package of materials that will help you take your first big steps.

I would greatly appreciate your taking the time to fill out and return to me a simple questionnaire that I use to better understand areas of research into which you may delve as well as your having access or not to a home personal computer.

Please feel free to become acquainted with the Genealogy Collection at Schaumburg Township District Library. Our book material is generally located in the 929.1XXXX to 929.3XXXX sections of both the Circulating Collection as well as the Reference Collection. The library also has a Video, Audio and Microform Collection of Genealogy material located in the AV-Department. The materials in AV are also identified in the same Dewey number range as the printed material. These are two great browsing areas for you to review introductory material.

For book material I would like to recommend as a starter a book titled Unpuzzling Your Past: A Basic Guide to Genealogy by Emily Anne Croom (929.1 CRO). A companion book that would follow Unpuzzling Your Past is The Genealogist's Companion & Sourcebook also by Emily Anne Croom (929.1 CRO). These two books present a good place to begin familiarizing yourself with the field of Genealogy. Feel free to check these out.

If you have access to the Internet, you may want to check out a Getting Started web page that appears at the National Genealogical Society web site. The address is:

http://www.ngsgenealogy.org//cs/getting_started

Our participants are a great group of friendly people who are willing to help each other in their quest to discover their ancestors. Don't be shy to mingle!! You may be sitting next to a long, lost relative!?

Welcome to the group!

WHO WE ARE AND WHERE WE ARE LOOKING - FOLLOW-UP

Here is an update on our participant information that I am tracking. My database to date includes information on 199 participants that have returned a filled-out questionnaire to me. I have received updates from many of you since our last meeting. You truly are a very sharing group in your willingness to share your personal information with others attending our genealogy program concerning your research efforts.

From the filled-out questionnaires that have been returned to me, the numbers show that they are searching for a total of 1,566 surnames among all of the individuals.

Remember, that I will bring to the program a current group report that I would appreciate you reviewing and marking any additions, deletions or changes for your particular information that you would like me to make onto the report itself. I will leave one updated report by the genealogical material by the "Ask Us" Desk on the 2nd floor for you to reference in-between meetings. I will make additions/deletions to the participants that will be reflected in the listing of participants contained in the red binder that will be on the shelves at the combined Information/Magazine desk.

If you are in the library and need to review please ask someone at the "Ask Us" Desk on the 2nd floor for the material. Also check for this binder at my desk in the Reference Office if you do not find it at the "Ask Us" Desk.

Any feedback from you is welcome concerning the report and the material included in it. I do occasionally make typos or I possibly misread what you provided.

Family Historians Go Online to Identify Unknown Soldiers and You Can Help (May 28, 2015)

Dick Eastman · May 28, 2015 · History · No Comments

The Commonwealth War Graves Commission says it has seen a steep rise in cases where amateur genealogists and historians believe they have solved the mystery of unidentified war graves. Similar efforts are underway in the U.S. and in European countries that were the scene of World War I and World War II battles.

The ability to search old war records easily online and the popularity of family history programs such as Who Do You Think You Are? and the the Missing In Action Recovery and Identification Project of the University of Wisconsin at Madison shave led many to turn amateur historian and try to identify the graves of missing ancestors.

Hundreds of thousands of members of the armed forces still have no known graves after the First and Second World Wars. Large numbers of bodies were never identified and lie only with headstones marked "Known unto God." But with millions of war records put online in recent years and the ease of searching them, there has been a dramatic increase in people turning detective and attempting to work out what happened to their lost relatives.

You can read more in two online articles: Army of family historians go online to identify unknown soldiers at <http://goo.gl/Sfq02t> describes efforts in the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth countries while Madison-based scientists aim to bring home MIAs the military missed at <http://goo.gl/VOJZmx> describes similar efforts in the U.S.

Women's Surnames at Marriage and Beyond (May 29, 2015)

Dick Eastman · May 29, 2015 · Current Affairs · 14 Comments

The Journal of Economic Perspectives has published an article that will be of interest to many genealogists. The article by Claudia Goldin and Maria Shim states:

Throughout U.S. history, few women have deviated from the custom of taking their husband's name (Stannard, 1977). The earliest known instance of a U.S. woman who retained her surname upon marriage is Lucy Stone, the tireless antislavery and female suffrage crusader, who married in 1855. In the 1920s, a generation after her death in 1893, prominent feminists formed the Lucy Stone League to help married women preserve the identity of their own surnames. But until the late 1970s, almost all women, even the highly educated and eminent, assumed their husband's surname upon marriage. When prominent women who married before the 1970s wished to keep their maiden names as part of their professional image, they sometimes used their maiden names as their middle names, like the U.S. Supreme Court Justices Ruth Bader Ginsburg and Sandra Day O'Connor.

Ordinary observation suggests that during the past 25 to 30 years, the fraction of college graduate women retaining their surnames has greatly increased. But the basic facts concerning women's surnames as a social indicator have eluded investigation because none of the usual data sets contains the current married and maiden surnames of women. This article seeks to estimate the fraction of women who are "keepers" and the factors that have prompted women to retain their surnames.

You can read the full article as a PDF file at <http://goo.gl/BEAVPR>.

WikiTree Reaches 10 Million Profiles (June 3, 2015)

Dick Eastman · June 3, 2015 · Online Sites · No Comments

The following announcement was written by the folks at WikiTree:

3 June 2015: This week the WikiTree community reached a major milestone: 10 million profiles on our shared family tree.

Since its founding in 2008, WikiTree has grown steadily but carefully. Although the community's mission is to connect the entire human family on one tree — ultimately including billions of people — WikiTree prioritizes collaboration and accuracy.

Over 200,000 genealogists have added profiles to WikiTree. Many of them share ancestors. Rather than create duplicate ancestor profiles, they work together on the same profiles. When duplicates are created accidentally, they're merged.

WikiTree's most recent enhancements for accuracy center on the integration of DNA testing. More than 15,000 members have taken DNA tests for genealogy and are using WikiTree's DNA features to confirm or reject genealogical connections. The ultimate goal is to use DNA to confirm each connection on our shared family tree.

Members are already marking certain family tree connections at "Confirmed with DNA" and DNA-confirmed indicators have started appearing in family trees and in WikiTree's Relationship Finder, the tool that shows the connection between any two people.

About WikiTree

WikiTree: The Free Family Tree has been growing since 2008. Community members privately collaborate with close family members on modern family history and publicly collaborate with other genealogists on deep ancestry. Since all the private and public profiles are connected on the same system this process is helping to grow a single, worldwide family tree that will eventually connect us all and thereby make it free and easy for anyone to discover their roots. See <http://www.WikiTree.com>.

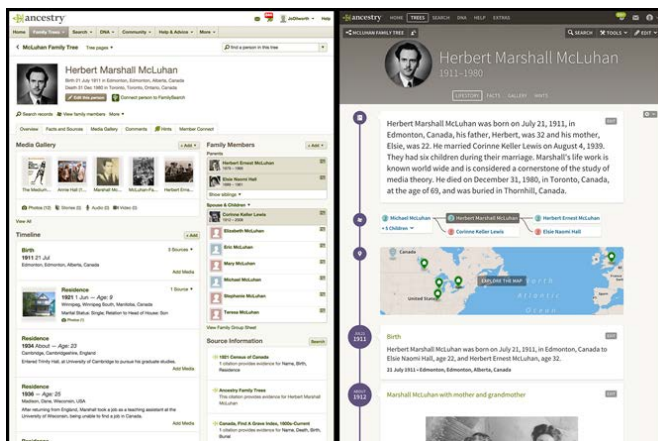

Make Sure You Are Climbing YOUR Family Tree and Not Someone Else's (June 9, 2015)

Dick Eastman · June 9, 2015 · Genealogy Basics · 35 Comments

Crista Cowan has posted an article in the Ancestry Blog that I would suggest be required reading for all genealogists, especially those who are new to researching their family tree.

One of the common errors made by not-so-experienced genealogists is finding a family tree online that “looks like my family” and making an erroneous assumption that it is indeed their own ancestors. I don't know the error rate of such assumptions but it must be high. I have seen many “family trees” with impossible information, such as a mother giving birth at the age of three or a child born to a father who had been deceased for ten years at the time of the child's birth. Too many people find a name and a location that “must be my ancestor” and add it to their so-called family tree.

Ancestry.com has added a new Facts View to the Ancestry online tree. The big change in the new versions is that sources to support the displayed facts and relationships are now front and center.

Planning a Roots Trip? (June 18, 2015)

Dick Eastman · June 18, 2015 · Travel · One Comment

The summer vacation time is upon us, at least in the Northern Hemisphere. Millions of people are planning vacations. If you are a genealogist, what better trip could you take than one that allows you to walk in the footsteps of your ancestors?

Writing in the MyHeritage Blog, Schelly Talalay Dardashti says, "Whether you stay at home or plan an international trip, the basics are the same: Decide where you are going and what information you would like to find. Contact local historic or genealogical societies in the area for more information, and see below for even more suggestions."

You can read all of Schelly's suggestions at <http://blog.myheritage.com/2015/06/family-planning-a-roots-trip>.

How Homesteading Was Done in the 1800s (June 19, 2015)

Dick Eastman · June 19, 2015 · History · 7 Comments

Did any of your ancestors take advantage of the Homestead Act of 1862? Did they settle on sparsely-populated land in one of the western states? If so, what were their lives like?

Kathy Belt has written an article that describes life for the homesteaders and asks the reader to think about what it would be like if any of us could be transported in time back to a homestead. She writes:

"If you truly want to live in the 1800s, be expected to have 18-20 children, all born at home, and have half of them die before the age of five because of dysentery, typhoid, scarlet fever or measles. Be prepared to get up with the sun and read by the light of your drafty fireplace. (Yes, the Franklin stove was invented in the late 1700s, but it weighed so much, most folks who went west didn't take it with them. Of course, if you stayed in one of the "big" cities, you would have access to whale oil or kerosene for your lights.)

"Be prepared to slaughter pigs and use everything except the "oink." (Think pickled pig's feet.) And you had better spend all day Sunday at church.

"Let's see—what else—oh yes, hygiene. It didn't exist."

The article was written about two years ago but this is history. It doesn't change. There is a lot more in Kathy Belt's article at <http://www.countrysidemag.com/97-1-how-things-were-done-in-the-1800s>.

My thanks to newsletter reader Patricia Smith for telling me about this article.

LOCAL GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY NEWS/PROGRAMS

Northwest Suburban Genealogy Society (formerly called Northwest Suburban Council of Genealogists)

The next meeting of the Northwest Suburban Genealogy Society (New Name) will take place on Saturday morning, August 29, 2015. The program for the morning is titled "Genealogical Research Strategies". The speaker for the morning will be Bob Allen.

Beyond recording names, dates and places, Bob Allen has focused on how his ancestors lived their lives—their work, community involvement, beliefs, memberships and politics. One of the most useful approaches that he has found helpful is a strategic research plan of action. Learn about his research plan and some of the surprising results!

Bob is a member of NWSGS and has been conducting his genealogy research for more than thirty years.

THE SOCIETY WILL NOT BE MEETING DURING THE MONTHS OF JUNE AND JULY. THEY WILL RE-GATHER AGAIN IN AT THE END OF AUGUST 2015 INSTEAD OF A SEPTEMBER PROGRAM THAT WOULD CONFLICT WITH LABOR DAY.

This meeting will take place at the Arlington Heights Senior Center, 1801 W. Central Rd., Arlington Heights, IL 60005 at 10:00 AM. There is a round table discussion that takes place at 9:00 AM prior to the main meeting/program that starts at 10:00 AM. Participants are invited to attend this round table and bring their research questions for discussion.

You may visit the society web page at:

<http://www.nwsgenealogy.org/>

Please note that it has happened once in a while that the society may change a program schedule without actively sharing that fact. Checking their web site may also not give you notice of such a change if they do not change the web site. That is still the first place to check. You may also want to contact someone at the society if a phone number is available to verify that a program is still scheduled as they had advertised. That is always not available either.

We do our best here to try to be sure that information we convey about programs is accurate. However, sometimes we are unable to convey changes unless we are made aware of those changes.

DuPage County Genealogical Society

Please note that there will be no meetings of the DuPage County Genealogical Society during the months of June, July and August 2015. Meetings will resume again on Wednesday evening, September 16, 2015.

Please note that meetings that will take place for the society will occur between September 2015 through May 2016. The September 2015 program will occur at the DuPage County Historical Museum located at 102 E. Wesley Street in Wheaton, IL. The October 2015 through May 2016 programs are once again taking place at the Wheaton Public Library in the Lower Level. The address of the library is 225 N. Cross St. in Wheaton, IL. Please note the times for refreshments and the program. Refreshments are offered at 6:30 PM. The meeting will start at 7 PM and last till no longer than 8:30 PM.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the DuPage County Genealogical Society will take place on Wednesday evening, September 16, 2015. The program scheduled for that evening is "The Eastland Disaster: An Unparalleled Disaster". The speaker for the program will be The Eastland Historical Society.

You may visit the society's web page at:

www.dcfgs.org

The society also has a blog that you can visit to find out about "this and that" related to the society as well as find genealogical tips. You can visit the DuPage County Genealogical Society blog at:

Computer Assisted Genealogy Group of Northern Illinois (CAGGNI)

The next regular meeting of CAGGNI will take place on Saturday morning, July 18, 2015 at the Schaumburg Township District Library, 130 S. Roselle Road, Schaumburg, IL starting at 10:30 AM. The program scheduled for this day is "Pinning Down Your Past: Adding Social Media To Your Genealogy Repertoire". The speaker will be Tina Beard.

Many of us have used Facebook to find distant cousins and former high school friends. When it comes to Genealogy, lots of social media sites are popping up to help make searching for ancestors fun. Join Tina for a fun session on how to use sites like Pinterest, Flickr, History Pin and more to find, identify and share ancestors.

You may visit the organization web page at:

More than 16 Million Virginia Records Are Now Digitized and Online (June 2, 2015)

Dick Eastman · June 2, 2015 · Online Sites · 5 Comments

Governor Terry McAuliffe announced on Tuesday morning that a massive project to help Virginians find important documents is now finished.

So far, birth and death records from 1912 to the present, marriage records from 1936 to the present and divorce records from 1918 to the present have been scanned and are available. Images are available and the records have also been indexed.

Here is the announcement from the Office of Governor McAuliffe:

RICHMOND – Governor Terry McAuliffe today announced the completion of a two-year, public-private collaboration between the Virginia Department of Health (VDH) and Ancestry.com that fully digitizes the state's vital records. To date, more than 16 million records have been digitized and indexed. Scanned images of the original, public* documents are available online through Ancestry.com. Access to the indexed information on the records is available free of charge through VDH's Division of Vital Records' and the Library of Virginia's websites.

"This public-private project demonstrates Virginia's continued commitment to innovation, efficiency and leveraging information technology to the benefit of all," said Governor Terry McAuliffe. "Having all Virginia vital records digitized mean millions of public birth, death, marriage and divorce records are now more easily accessed for genealogy and family history research. This project also provides a long-term conservation solution for preserving the rich history of Virginia's people."

"I am pleased that this project has come to fruition," said Secretary of Health and Human Resources Dr. Bill Hazel. "It was a major undertaking and citizens will now enjoy the ability to find more information about their heritage."

"Family history and individual health are closely linked," said State Health Commissioner Marissa J. Levine, MD, MPH, FAAFP. "Through this project, people can more easily explore their ancestors' lives and possibly identify family health conditions or hereditary risk factors. This information is empowering and takes us one step closer to our goal of becoming the healthiest state in the nation."

The project began two years ago following legislation (Senate Bill 660 in 2012) supporting digitizing vital records. So far, birth and death records from 1912 to the present, marriage records from 1936 to the present and divorce records from 1918 to the present have been scanned and are available. Non-public records—those that have not yet reached the required time for release—are only available in a "limited index," which discloses only an individual's name and the date and location of the event.

"We are grateful for the opportunity to help Virginia increase access to these records for Commonwealth residents," said Ancestry Senior Director Global Content Acquisition Quinton Atkinson. Virginia plays a special role in the history of the United States. Tens of thousands of people researching their family history have been anxiously awaiting the opportunity to learn more about their ancestors through these records. It is an exciting moment for the entire genealogy community."

"Throughout this project and beyond, maintaining the integrity of Virginia's Vital Records System and the security of people's records remains our priority," said VDH Chief Information Officer Debbie Condrey. "All documents were scanned under the supervision of trained VDH Vital Records staff following strict protocols."

"It is exciting and rewarding to successfully implement a records project of this magnitude and historical significance," added State Registrar and Division of Vital Records Director Janet Rainey. "This project is one of the first of its kind in the nation."

For more information on Virginia's records visit www.vdh.virginia.gov/Vital_Records/, the Library of Virginia or www.ancestry.com.

* In Virginia, death, marriage and divorce data become "public" information 25 years after the event; birth data are "public" after 100 years.

HistoryGeo.com Adds Landowner Data (June 16, 2015)

Dick Eastman · June 16, 2015 · Online Sites · No Comments

Arphax Publishing Company publishes HistoryGeo.com, a family history web service for linking old maps and land records to your genealogy research. Arphax probably is best known for providing online versions of the Family Maps and Texas Land Survey Maps book series, but that perception has changed since the release of the company's First Landowners Project.

The company recently announced the addition of 3.3 million original landowners to the HistoryGeo.com "First Landowners Project," for Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, Washington and Wyoming.

Instead of looking at landowner maps township by township, HistoryGeo.com allows the user to view a single, interactive map containing over 12.3 million landowners and 2.25 million lots among 30 states (all 29 of the public land states in the Continental U.S., plus Texas). Imagine constantly expanded map coverage, and having the ability to keep track of all the early homesteaders you're researching.

The Antique Maps Collection is a fully indexed collection of hundreds of thousands of landowners from a constantly expanding collection of nearly 4,000 maps from various sources and time periods. All you need to access this content is a HistoryGeo.com subscription.

For more information, go online to www.historygeo.com.

The author notes that there are many more genealogy apps to be found at both iTunes and Google Play. The ones noted above are considered the most prominent ones available.

The author also notes the researcher should also consider checking out the FamilySearch App Gallery that can be found at <http://familysearch.org/apps>. It does not include all of the apps that can be found at iTunes or Google Play, but you may find apps here that do not appear in either iTunes or Google Play.

For more details on any of the apps listed above, just use the name of the app as your search term in the appropriate iTunes store or Google Play.

The article itself provides an approximate paragraph size description of each app noted above. You can also make a personal copy of this article from Internet Genealogy to read through the descriptions for each app if you prefer that method rather than using iTunes or Google Play.

Take advantage of these apps if you want to increase your research flexibility and have your family trees with you along with the other genealogy resources represented by the genealogy apps.

I thought that another good article in this issue is one titled "Online Safety: Protecting Your Data". The author of the article is Carol Richey.

Almost on a daily basis we hear news releases of some new major hacking effort into some of our largest corporations. Even recently, there was a hack into the Federal Personnel Records affecting millions of current Federal employees and retirees. If large corporations can be hacked as well as our Federal government then what chance does the individual have? Don't have a defeatist attitude! You still have to protect yourself and your data as best as you can. The author has identified 7 key components of cyber security that should guide your actions online. Here they are:

Control Physical Access To Your Data

- Prevent unauthorized physical access to your computing equipment.
- Require a log-on password or lock your physical device.
- Do not choose to "remember" your passwords.

Have Adequate Firewall, Virus and Malware Protection On All Devices With An Internet Connection

- A firewall acts as a shield between your computer and the Internet.
- Install anti-virus software and keep it updated.
- Make sure your anti-virus software includes malware protection. If it does not, add on a standalone malware software package.
- Download software from reputable sources and locations.
- Treat all email attachments with caution. Know where your email is coming from and if you were expecting an attachment to arrive from a known source.
- Phishing is receiving emails that look legitimate with the intent of trying to pry account information from you for misuse. Do not reply to these. Do not click on internal links within these emails. Do not provide any account information.

Keep Your Operating System Updated and Software Patches Installed

- Set your operating system and web browser to update automatically. When vulnerabilities are discovered, companies update their operating system to fix the vulnerability. If you do not update your operating system as they occur, you will remain vulnerable.
- Before traveling, get your system updated if updates exist. If you update on the road using that location's Wi-Fi, you may needlessly increase your vulnerability through access of their Wi-Fi.
- Know the Wi-Fi network your device connects to. Do not just access any open available public Wi-Fi resource.
- Disable all online Sharing if you are connecting to a Wi-Fi network.
- Save all of your online banking or shopping activities to your own home secured network rather than a public Wi-Fi network.
- Consider using a Virtual Private Network (VPN). A VPN encrypts all data coming into and going from your device.

Use Unique, Strong Passwords For Each of Your Online Accounts

- At a minimum, use at least one unique password for your online banking, email, social networking sites. Reusing the same password puts you at risk.
- Use passwords of at least 10 characters which contain random mixes of numbers, symbols, uppercase and lowercase letters.
- Do not use dictionary words.
- Consider using a password managers such as LastPass at <http://lastpass.com>, Dashlane at www.dashlane.com to help manage your multiple passwords.

Protect Your Sensitive Information

- Only give your personal information such as your address and credit card information to trusted sites. Do not give out your Social Security number.
- Check privacy policies before committing to any website.
- Determine if a site using encryption processes on any information you provide.
- Check to be sure a site is noted with "https" rather than just "http". The "https" indicates a secure site.

Make a Conscious Choice About What You Share and with Whom You Share It

- Do not share information about living family members on public websites.
- We often feel comfortable than we should in sharing research information. Do you want to share that with strangers? Would you feel comfortable sharing with strangers? Probably not.

Recognize Your Risks

- Visit the Federal Government's OnGuardOnline.gov information at www.onguardonline.gov and find safety alerts and tips.

- You cannot make the Internet 100% safe but the more layers of protection you incorporate into your access and data, the better your chances of being protected.

Protect yourself to the maximum degree possible for all of your online activities. Do not let your guard down. Use virus software and malware software. Don't just click on links within email messages unless you know from where you received that email. Strengthen your passwords. Don't just use one. Read the privacy policies on websites so you know exactly how your data can and will be used.

Put into play all of the points noted above to increase your own security for all that you do on the Internet.

This is another good issue of Internet Genealogy with plenty of articles on a variety of genealogical topics. I am sure you will find something in this issue that connects to your own research efforts. Just check out the articles noted that are in this issue above.

You can find this most recent issue of Internet Genealogy on the 2nd floor of our library on the magazine shelves.

MacFamilyTree 7.5 for Macintosh is Now Available (June 11, 2015)

Dick Eastman · June 11, 2015 · Software · 2 Comments

Synium Software GmbH has just launched version 7.5 of their popular Macintosh genealogy application. Best of all, the program is being offered at half price for the next ten days.

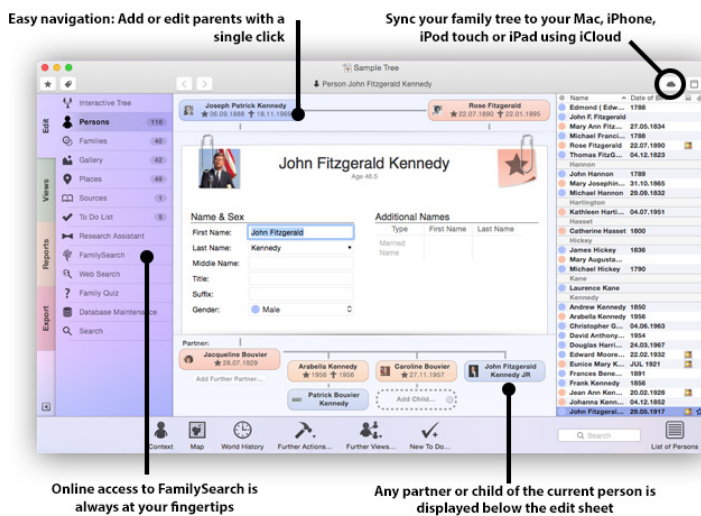

MacFamilyTree

Quoting from the new version's announcement:

With MacFamilyTree version 7.5, you can create, share and print family books. Family books include all important data contained in your family tree and supplements it with impressive charts, statistics, and reports. Numerous templates and styles are available to help you create family books in a flash – they also make great birthday or wedding gifts.

MacFamilyTree 7.5 also supports Apple's new Photos app for easy access to all images and videos stored in the media center. In addition, we dramatically enhanced the Places management feature, which, based on Apple Maps, now allows users to look at important milestones in their family history neatly displayed on a map.

MacFamilyTree comes with full integration of FamilySearch, which is a free research service that lets you search not only billions of ancestral data sets but also original documents such as certificates, immigration and church registers, and many more official documents.

Language Support:

MacFamilyTree is localized for English, German, Danish, French, Chinese, Finnish, Norwegian, Italian, Dutch, Czech, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, Swedish, Hungarian, Polish languages.

System Requirements:

- OS X 10.7 or later

- OS X 10.10 Yosemite recommended
- 64-bit processor
- 287 MB

Pricing and Availability:

For a limited time, MacFamilyTree 7.5 is now $24.99 USD until June 21st (Reg $49.99) or equivalent amount in other currencies, and available worldwide through the Mac App Store in the Productivity category.

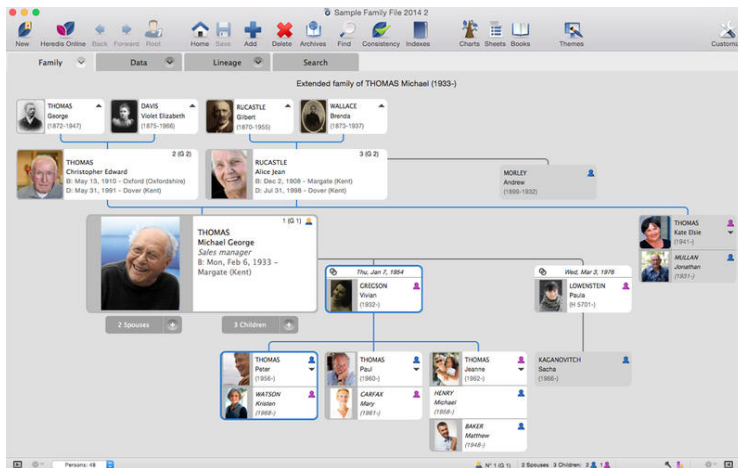

There is also a mobile version of MacFamilyTree available. It's called MobileFamilyTree 7, offers almost every feature of MacFamilyTree and is sold separately for just $7.99 (USD). That's 50% discount, too. MobileFamilyTree is the first and only full-featured genealogy app on the market.

MacFamilyTree version 7.5 may be found at <http://www5.syniumsoftware.com/macfamilytree>.

Heredis 2015 is Now Available for Windows and Macintosh (June 23, 2015)

Dick Eastman · June 23, 2015 · Software · No Comments

Almost two weeks ago, I published an article at <http://goo.gl/ACmkRF> entitled Heredis 2015 to be Available Later this Month. Today, the prediction came true. Heredis 2015, a powerful genealogy program for Windows and for Macintosh, was released today.

Heredis 2015 is a major upgrade. The program now includes a search module for online archives. With the 2015 release, everything needed for online genealogy research is now included in Heredis. The producers of Heredis say there now is no need for additional software to be installed or paid for to have all the tools necessary for your genealogy.

In addition, Heredis 2015 adds:

- Photo tool: Capture faces and signatures on photos and documents. If the pictures or captures of acts are not perfect, you can correct them with the photo editing functions.

- Shared events: Share an event for several participants with one unique data entry. The event then appears in the record of each person.
- Family Tree Mapping: Your ancestors are now shown on interactive maps. Display the places where your ancestors lived.
- Photo albums on Heredis Online: Share your genealogical photo albums on Heredis Online. Visitors to Heredis Online will make the most of graphic pictures and will no doubt get in touch with you if they have information about any person in any photo.
- Search online tool for Archives: The new online archive tool will help you retrieve documents online without leaving your software. It will also help you to make a capture of acts found and to integrate them directly into your genealogy.

Another item in the announcement that caught my eye in the announcement is that the price of Heredis has been reduced: $29.99 US instead of $39.99 US for the 2014 version. Free demo versions are also available so that you can try the program for a while at no cost.

All the details are available in an announcement available at <http://heredis.com/download/Press-release-Heredis-2015.zip> as a ZIP file that include several screen shots and a PDF file with the announcement. You also might want to watch a video about Heredis 2015 below:

You can read more about the Windows version of Heredis at <http://www.heredis.com/en/heredis-2015-for-windows/> while the Macintosh version is described at <http://www.heredis.com/en/heredis-2015-for-mac/>. The Macintosh version may be downloaded from the Macintosh App Store at <https://itunes.apple.com/us/app/heredis-2015-world/id1003686085?l=fr&ls=1&mt=12>. The Macintosh version is available at a $5 introductory discount, good until July 12, 2015.

FUNNY BONE

Here is some genealogy humor I found at a blog called GeneaMusings that is authored by Randy Seaver. He has a blog post about "funny names" that he has discovered in the 1850 to 1880 Censuses of the United States. This particular blog post focuses on individuals having a variety of the first name of "berry" or a variety of the surname of "berry". The post goes back to May 25, 2007 but I think it is as humorous now as it was then in its original posting.

The link to Randy's post on the inclusion of names in the census having some variety of "berry" in their names can be found at:

<http://www.geneamusings.com/2007/05/berry-people-in-census.html>

Here are some of the names from the blog post:

In the 1900 census, there are 49,499 people with the surname Berry, and 20,335 with the surname Barry. Included are:

- * Blacksie Berry in Smith County TX
- * Berry Berry in Mason County KY
- * Little H. Berry in King County WA
- * Strawberry Berry in Escambia County AL
- * Thorn Berry in Sacramento County CA
- * Green Berry in Kanawha County WV

People with surnames containing Berry include (in 1900):

- * Rosie Mulberry in Scott County KY
- * Pink Raspberry in Jefferson County AL
- * Ruby Raspberry in Pemiscot county MO
- * Rose Blackberry in New York County NY
- * Frank Blueberry in Belknap County NH

People with given names containing Berry (there are 8,593 of them in the 1900 census) include:

- * Berry Bramble in King County WA
- * Berry Bush in Saline County IL
- * Blackberry McGill in Cannon County TN
- * Raspberry Stone in Tuscaloosa County AL
- * Littleberry Hill in Jefferson County AL
- * Greenberry Hill in Clay County AL
- * Greenberry Shufflebean in Davis County IA
- * Mulberry Burnham in Cumberland county ME

I looked for Strawberry, Blueberry, Blackberry, Raspberry, Lingonberry, Littleberry, Greenberry, Redberry, Mulberry, etc. What other Berries should I consider?
