I would like to remind you that a few extra "paper" copies of newsletters from the recent 2 months are filed at the "Ask Us" Desk on the 2nd floor along with the most recent "handouts" from the last 2 months. Please remember that you can take any of the extra paper copies in the folder. The Newsletter as well as all "handout" summaries for a particular program will be contained in a folder specifically for that program date e.g. Newsletter as well as "handout" summary for program on 1/12/10 are contained in a separate folder. Each program date will have its own folder. If you do not find a copy in the manila "extra" folder, you will have to copy from the permanent file binder. If the staff has trouble finding the folders, please let me know.

More importantly, electronic PDF copies of the Newsletter and the "handouts" summary for our monthly program can be obtained electronically as PDF files from our Library's Genealogy Blog called "Tony's Genealogy Blog at the Schaumburg Township District Library". This is a WordPress blog that you can reach directly at:

MAY 10, 2016 GENEALOGY PROGRAM TOPIC

Our next genealogy program will take place on Tuesday evening, May 10, 2016.

Our guest speaker for the evening will be Tina Beaird. Tina will present a program titled "Mapping Your Migrating Ancestors".

Our ancestors traveled so much, if not more, than we do today. Explore what types of maps and property records exist for pinpointing your ancestor's whereabouts across the United States, from plat maps to Sanborn Fire Insurance maps to Google maps!

Tina Beaird is the Genealogy & Local History Librarian at the Plainfield Public Library. She holds a Masters of Library and Information Science degree with a specialization in Archives/Preservation from Dominican University. Tina has won multiple research and digitization grants to preserve and digitize historic documents and photographs.

Currently, Tina is an active member of the Society of American Archivists and the American Library Association. She is an Oswego Heritage Association governing board member and an Oswego Historic Preservation Commissioner.

Tina lectures at the national, state and local level on topics including genealogical research, photo preservation and archival preservation. Tina has offered professional assistance to researchers for over 12 years and occasionally, still finds time to conduct her own family research, which she has been pursuing for over twenty years.

You may visit the library's web page at:

to view a Calendar of Events section of the library web page for this program and for many more non-genealogical programs offered by our library.

You can also visit the Genealogy Blog of the library that is authored by Tony Kierna. Visit the blog at <http://genealogywithtony.wordpress.com> for all things related to genealogy and the genealogy programs at the Schaumburg Township District Library.

WELCOME TO ALL NEWCOMERS

Glad you could join us as you embark on a rather adventurous journey into the unknown and far-reaching past! Please see me so I can get to know you and the details of the "journey" you plan to take. Make sure you receive from me a special "newcomer" package of materials that will help you take your first big steps.

I would greatly appreciate your taking the time to fill out and return to me a simple questionnaire that I use to better understand areas of research into which you may delve as well as your having access or not to a home personal computer.

Please feel free to become acquainted with the Genealogy Collection at Schaumburg Township District Library. Our book material is generally located in the 929.1XXXX to 929.3XXXX sections of both the Circulating Collection as well as the Reference Collection.

The library also has a Video, Audio and Microform Collection of Genealogy material located in the AV-Department. The materials in AV are also identified in the same Dewey number range as the printed material. These are two great browsing areas for you to review introductory material.

For book material I would like to recommend as a starter a book titled Unpuzzling Your Past: A Basic Guide to Genealogy by Emily Anne Croom (929.1 CRO). A companion book that would follow Unpuzzling Your Past is The Genealogist's Companion & Sourcebook also by Emily Anne Croom (929.1 CRO). These two books present a good place to begin familiarizing yourself with the field of Genealogy. Feel free to check these out.

If you have access to the Internet, you may want to check out a Getting Started web page that appears at the National Genealogical Society web site. The address is:

http://www.ngsgenealogy.org//cs/getting_started

Our participants are a great group of friendly people who are willing to help each other in their quest to discover their ancestors. Don't be shy to mingle!! You may be sitting next to a long, lost relative!?

Welcome to the group!

WHO WE ARE AND WHERE WE ARE LOOKING - FOLLOW-UP

Here is an update on our participant information that I am tracking. My database to date includes information on 206 participants that have returned a filled-out questionnaire to me. I have received updates from many of you since our last meeting. You truly are a very sharing group in your willingness to share your personal information with others attending our genealogy program concerning your research efforts.

From the filled-out questionnaires that have been returned to me, the numbers show that they are searching for a total of 1,648 surnames among all of the individuals.

Remember, that I will bring to the program a current group report that I would appreciate you reviewing and marking any additions, deletions or changes for your particular information that you would like me to make onto the report itself. I will leave one updated report by the genealogical material by the "Ask Us" Desk on the 2nd floor for you to reference in-between meetings. I will make additions/deletions to the participants that will be reflected in the listing of participants contained in the red binder that will be on the shelves at the combined Information/Magazine desk.

If you are in the library and need to review please ask someone at the "Ask Us" Desk on the 2nd floor for the material. Also check for this binder at my desk in the Reference Office if you do not find it at the "Ask Us" Desk.

Any feedback from you is welcome concerning the report and the material included in it. I do occasionally make typos or I possibly misread what you provided.

Genetic Family History Test Now Available from AncestryDNA (March 10, 2016)

Dick Eastman · March 10, 2016 · Business News, DNA · 15 Comments

The following announcement was written by the folks at AncestryDNA:

LONDON, March 10, 2016 — Revolutionary DNA test will help people discover where they come from and uncover unknown family members

AncestryDNA, the market-leading family history DNA testing service, is now available in over 30 countries, changing the way people can discover more about themselves and their family history and also helping them connect with relatives they didn't know existed.

Users simply 'spit in a tube' and then send it off to the lab where advanced DNA technology is used to reveal a person's genetic ethnicity and uncover new family connections with more than 1.5 million people who have taken the test.

The AncestryDNA test uses microarray-based autosomal DNA testing, which surveys a person's entire genome at over 700,000 locations via a simple saliva sample. Analysis of the DNA data provides a prediction of the locations of ancestors from 26 separate world-wide populations including Great Britain, Ireland, Scandinavia, Eastern Europe, Middle East and North Africa.

Dan Jones, General Manager International at Ancestry comments:

"AncestryDNA provides people with a unique and engaging experience that helps them make amazing discoveries about their family history. The product has been a great success since launch and I am excited that it is now available in over 30 countries worldwide."

Costing Euro135 (about $150 US) plus Euro30 (about $33.50 US) shipping, AncestryDNA kits are dispatched within six days of an order, with the test results taking from 6-8 weeks to be delivered. Tests are available from <http://www.ancestrydna.com>.

LDSGenealogy.com Web Site is Relunched (March 12, 2016)

Dick Eastman · March 12, 2016 · Online Sites · 12 Comments

The following announcement was written by the folks at LDSGenealogy.com:

LDSGenealogy.com is pleased to announce a complete site relaunch, including the addition of an extensive U.S. genealogy records directory with more than 579,000 record sources from 930 websites and archives. The directory includes detailed information from online sources such as FamilySearch, Ancestry, MyHeritage, American Ancestors, FindMyPast, Newspapers.com, Fold3, Find a Grave, US Gen Web, Genealogy Bank, Newspaper Archive, Archives.com, Chronicling America, Elephind, Distant Cousin, Billion Graves, and hundreds of smaller and local sites. Records from offline sources are also included such as the Family History Library, the U.S. Newspaper Directory from the Library of Congress, the New York State Library, the Boston Public Library, and several others.

The records directory has been under development for several years and is now newly available all on one site. One of the challenges to doing genealogy research, particularly for the United States, is that the relevant records are scattered across many websites and archives, and it can be time consuming to locate them. The directory has detailed information down to the county and town/city level for the entire United States for both online and archival sources. So you can come to one place, find the location, and easily and quickly find the relevant records for your research. New record sources for the United States will continue to be added, and listings for other countries are under development. Submissions to the directory are welcome. Helpful articles for learning genealogy are also available on the site.

The Irish Are Not Celtic! (March 22, 2016)

Dick Eastman · March 22, 2016 · DNA · 10 Comments

I am not certain if I believe this or not. However, it certainly is an interesting claim. Slashdot has an article that claims, "The discovery of a burial site in Ireland has thrown into doubt all theories concerning the Celtic origins of the Irish. 'The DNA evidence based on those bones completely upends the traditional view,' said Barry Cunliffe, an emeritus professor of archaeology at Oxford who has written books on the origins of the people of Ireland. DNA research indicates that the three skeletons found behind McCuaig's are the ancestors of the modern Irish and they predate the Celts and their purported arrival by 1,000 years or more. The genetic roots of today's Irish, in other words, existed in Ireland before the Celts arrived. The article is quite detailed, and outlines the overall scientific problem of the Celts: [namely that it] is now quite unclear who they were, where they came from, and where they went. In related news: Scientists have found new evidence of a human presence in Ireland as far back as 12,500 years ago."

LOCAL GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY NEWS/PROGRAMS

Northwest Suburban Genealogy Society (formerly called Northwest Suburban Council of Genealogists)

This lecture encourages one to go beyond the obvious use of a city directory - locating an ancestor. The directory provides an opportunity to discover our ancestors' historical context. Pictures, advertisements, maps of the city and many more items are often included. The audience will be encouraged to understand each directory's unique qualities. Reverse directories will also be discussed. Every directory available for a given ancestor/family should be consulted. Examples will be used to illustrate various points.

Teresa Steinkamp McMillin, CG specializes in German-American and Midwest research, as well as reading German script. She has been interested in genealogy since she was a child and currently has many pleased clients. She presents quality genealogical lectures for local societies and national conferences. Teresa was the 2007 recipient of the National Genealogical Society's Home Study Course, which she has completed. She is a multi-year attendee of the Institute of Genealogy and Historical Research and the Salt Lake Institute of Genealogy; and has taken college-level German courses. Recently, Teresa published the Guide to Hanover Military Records, 1514-1866 on Microfilm at the Family History Library. Teresa is a member of the Association of Professional Genealogists, the National Genealogical Society, as well as many local genealogical societies. She is the webmaster for the Northwest Suburban Genealogy Society in Arlington Heights, Illinois. Teresa lives in the northwest suburbs of Chicago with her husband and two teenaged children.

Maps are one of the most valuable tools a genealogist can use. But you should also make your own to both illustrate your family history and provide insight into your research. Using PowerPoint as a foundation, this talk shows you how to use it and several free resources and start building your own maps.

When you cross an aerospace engineer (a.k.a. rocket scientist) with a teacher, librarian, and genealogist, you get a wide range of knowledge and a depth of experience rarely equaled. You also get complex topics explained in everyday language with enthusiasm and excellence. She's particularly adept at explaining obscure and under-utilized resources. She has been a genealogist since 1994 and a professional since 2008.

You won't want to miss this program.

20 Years of Cyndi's List (March 4, 2016)

Dick Eastman · March 4, 2016 · Online Sites · 3 Comments

It seems like only yesterday! The following announcement was written by Cyndi Ingle:

A major milestone celebrating 20 years of service

Cyndi's List

EDGEWOOD, WASHINGTON (March 4, 2016)
– Cyndi's List (<http://www.CyndisList.com>) was launched 20 years ago on March 4, 1996. What started out as a side-page in a personal genealogy web site has become one of the top genealogy resources online. The original site started on one web page with 1,025 links. By the end of that first year the site was sorted onto individual pages with more than 9,600 links in more than 50 categories. Just after its one-year anniversary the site had grown to 17,300 links in more than 60 categories on 195+ separate web pages. The site has continued to grow exponentially with the popularity of genealogy and the Internet. Today there are more than 330,000 links in 207 categories that point to an endless supply of related genealogy links online.

The purpose of Cyndi's List remains the same today, 20 years after its creation: to be a free jumping-off point and a catalog for the immense genealogical collection that is the Internet. And it is all done not by software, but by a live human being. Every link found on Cyndi's List is personally visited, titled, given a description, categorized, and cross-referenced across the site. Cyndi Ingle is the creator and owner of Cyndi's List. The site is a one-woman enterprise in which Cyndi often works 10-12 hours each day, many times 7 days a week. Users of Cyndi's List are encouraged to submit new links and report broken links, all in an effort to keep Cyndi's List as current as possible.

Cyndi's List has always been free for everyone online to use for their genealogical research. It remains free today. The site is supported by advertising and through the donation button found on each page on the site. Generous users of Cyndi's List have helped to pay for 86 percent of the major site upgrade done in 2011.

Cyndi's List is unique as a research tool because it has a genealogist, with more than 36 years of experience, behind the scenes maintaining the links. Cyndi urges users to ignore the search engine on the site and explore the categories themselves (<http://www.CyndisList.com/categories/>). The categorization is what makes the site unique and such a successful research tool. Cyndi works diligently to deep-link into sites that contain genealogical treasures and by doing so brings those links to the top of the heap, easier to for everyone to find. By browsing through the site users find web sites and resources they never thought to look for and break down those brick walls in their research.

Users of Cyndi's List explain why it is such a popular research tool:

"Cyndi's List was one of the first sites I found upon starting to do genealogy. I've been consistently impressed with the scope, organization and accuracy of the site. Bravo Cyndi and thanks."

"Cyndislist has always been my go-to source for researching new things and it is always first or second on my list for genealogy newbies (FamilySearch wiki and Cyndislist are invaluable)"

"Cyndi's list is a sledge hammer for brick walls. Your site has led me to find great resources just clicking around."

"I've relied on your website as THE best resource on the 'net to help with my research..."

"Where can you get at all things genealogical in one fell swoop? Everyone knows it's CyndisList.com. Every genealogist who uses the web MUST use Cyndi's List."

Join us on social networking as we continue to celebrate this incredible milestone of 20 years of helping millions of people worldwide with their online research.

Mocavo is Moving to Findmypast (March 23, 2016)

Dick Eastman · March 23, 2016 · Online Sites · 7 Comments

As predicted about two months ago (see my earlier article at <http://goo.gl/e6Q4VX>), "Mocavo will be incorporated into Findmypast to create a single experience for customers interested in discovering more about their family history." The merger will happen this evening.

An announcement sent to Mocavo customers early this morning states "We're contacting you to let you know that the Mocavo website will be closing midnight tonight (Wednesday 23rd March) and that your account will be moving over to Findmypast in the next few days. Plus, over the coming weeks, all of Mocavo's records and much, much more will soon be available on Findmypast." Mocavo customers are also receiving a 30 day trial completely free as a little welcome gift. You'll receive more information about this in a follow-up email after it's been applied. If you have an online Mocavo family tree, it will be migrated to Findmypast and you will receive a link showing where you can access it shortly. But, if you can't wait, you can always export your GEDCOM file now. More information about the merger of the two sites is available at <http://www.findmypast.com/mocavo-info>.

I thought that a good article in this issue is one titled "For Love and Money: Pension Laws Affecting Widows of Military Veterans". The author of the article is Claire Prechtel-Kluskens.

As a genealogist we often discover that our ancestors were in the military service of the United States. Some of us might discover ancestral connections to someone having served in the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the Mexican War or even the Civil War. Some of us might have living relatives that may have served their country in military conflicts that were much more current in time such as the Korean War, the Viet Nam War or even the recent middle-eastern wars.

Veterans of any of these wars often received some form of a Pension for their service that could have gone to them and may have been passed on to their surviving wife and children after their death.

This article focuses on pension information for widows related to the Revolutionary War through the Civil War and does not focus on the more modern era wars of our time.

If you feel from your research for the above range of wars noted above that an ancestor might have served in one of them, look to establish and confirm that your ancestor did indeed serve in the military. If you feel you have established that then do not forget to research whether that veteran may have received some pension dollars as a result of that service that would have come directly to him and could have also come to his widow upon his death.

One thing to note is that the rules and regulations established by Congress for a widow to qualify for a pension were set up different for each conflict. Not only that, but over time the original rules may have changed for widows of veterans for any of these widows again thanks to Congress.

This is a good article to give you a very good overview of these pension guidelines that apply to widows of veterans for the wars discussed in this article. You should make a copy of this article if your ancestor served in the Revolutionary War (1775 to April 1783),

War of 1812 (June 18, 1812 to February 17, 1815), Mexican War (April 24, 1846 to May 30, 1848), Indian Wars (1818-1898), and Civil War.

Revolutionary War

- Please note that it took until July 4, 1836 before a congressional act took effect to establish a pension process for surviving widows of Revolutionary War veterans. That is almost 60 years since the beginning of the conflict.
- The act allowed widows whose marriage took place before the end of the veteran's service to receive the same amount her late husband would have been entitled to under the 1832 Act (typically $8 per month!).
- An Act of 1838 established that for soldiers who married after the war that these wives be included to receive some form of pension through their husband after death. The 1838 Act established a 5 year window during which these widows would receive pension compensation through their deceased husband.
- An Act of 1848 finally established life pensions for widows of these Revolutionary War veterans as long as they were married prior to January 2, 1800.
- Finally an Act of 1853 and an Act of 1855 removed all of the date restrictions for these widows for a marriage date.
- An Act of 1878 allowed widows of men who had served for as few as 14 days or participated in any engagement to receive $8 per month which was increased to $12 per month with an Act in 1886.

War of 1812

- Widows of War of 1812 veterans who had served at least 60 days were granted an $8 monthly pension by an Act of 1871 if their marriage had taken place by February 17, 1815.
- Act of 1878 extended pension benefits to any widow whose husband had served at least 14 days.
- Monthly rate was raised to $12 by an Act of 1886.
- Monthly rate was raised to $30 by an Act of 1920.
- Monthly rate was raised to $50 by an Act of 1926.

Mexican War

- Widows of men who served at least 60 days during the war with Mexico, or who were personally named in a resolution of Congress, became eligible for an $8 per month pension by the Act of 1887 if the widow was at least 62, dependent or disabled.
- The monthly amount was raised to $12 by an Act of 1908.
- The monthly amount was raised to $20 by an Act of 1916 for widows age 70 or older.
- The monthly amount was raised to $30 by an Act of 1920.
- The monthly amount was raised to $50 by an Act of 1926.

Indian Wars

- Act of 1892 authorized pensions to widows of men who served thirty days or more in Indian wars that occurred between 1832 and 1842. Widows also had to be citizens and actual residency in the U.S. was accepted as “proof of citizenship”.
- A pension Act of 1908 gave widows of the “Texas volunteers” who served in the defense of the frontier of the State against Mexican marauders pension rights.
- An Act of 1917 extended Indian War widow’s benefits again to include eligibility for benefits based on thirty days service by the veteran between 1859 and 1891 so long as the widow married the veteran before March 4, 1917. A list of specific campaigns was mentioned that tied into eligibility for benefits.
- If the veteran’s service was less than thirty days a widow’s pension could still be obtained if the veteran served “during the entire period of the said campaign”.
- Indian War widows received $8 from 1892 until the amount was increased to $20 by an Act of 1913 and then $30 by an Act of 1927.

Civil War

- Act of 1862 declared that widows of men who died due to wounds, injury or disease after March 4, 1861 were entitled to receive a pension equal to the amount the husband would have received “had he been totally disabled”.
- Widows of privates and other low ranks received $8 per month.
- Widow’s pension would end upon remarriage or cohabitation without marriage.
- By an Act of 1890 a widow no longer had to prove the veteran’s death occurred due to his military service; the veteran need only have served 90 days; widow must have married the veteran before June 27, 1890.
- Act of 1900 added a 4th criteria. The the widow “had to be without means of support other than her daily labor and have actual net income of less than $250 per year”.
- Monthly rate increased to $12 per month by Act of 1908.
- Act of 1920 increased monthly amount to $30.
- Act of 1926 increased monthly amount to $50.

As you can see this is a very complicated process that evolves over time regardless of the conflict or time period the veteran served in. The biggest takeaway from all of this activity documented into law is that for any military veteran you discover in your research that was married, it can be very likely that there is an large “paper trail” of records that exists related to widow’s pension benefits. It is within this paper trail that much can be discovered about your military ancestor as well as the widow of that veteran.

I thought that another good article in this issue is one titled “Electronic Resources to Build context”. The author of the article is Jordan Jones.

To know about our ancestors it is critical to study the history of the times of our ancestors. Our ancestors are more than “birth dates” and “death dates”. It is valuable to study the laws and regulations that governed the collection of the various records that would have been applicable to our ancestors. The author notes that it is important to “understand the milieu of our ancestors to understand migration patterns, the effect of war and pestilence, and the socio-political environment that drove their decisions, lives, migrations and alliances.”

So where can we gather this knowledge?

Online Education

- The Great Courses – within this resource, John Colletta has a course specifically on genealogy. You can often 80% sales on many of the courses offered at <http://www.thegreatcourses.com>.
- Coursera provides graded or ungraded courses from major universities. The graded courses have a small fee. You can find this at <http://www.coursera.com>.
- EdX was founded by Harvard University and MIT in 2012. Same courses taught to students at major universities. Content is delivered week by week as the course progresses. The courses also come with a social media community on Twitter, Facebook and Google Hangouts. You can find them at <https://www.edx.org>.
- Khan Academy has limited selection of historical courses. No quizzes in the courses! You can find them at <http://www.khanacademy.org>.
- National Genealogical Society offers many online courses. You can find them at http://www.ngsgenealogy.org/cs/online_courses.
- Even Cyndi's List has online course links at <http://www.cyndislist.com/education/online-courses-and-webinars>.

Audio Books

- Audible, a subsidiary of Amazon, claims to have 225,000 audio books. Biggest complaint is that Audible does not seem to know what a chapter is in how it organizes its material. No chapter titles. Numbered from "1" going forward even if "1" is an Introduction. You can find it at www.audible.com.
- Downpour is trying to give Audible a run for its money. The material does not lock you into a website. Material you get is in MP3 format without digital rights management (DRM). Selection is not as good as for Audible but the fees are lower. You can visit them at <http://www.downpour.com/>.
- OverDrive is a source that lets you borrow e-books, audio books and video content from public libraries. Can be a complicated login process between all of the components in the chain. OverDrive has partnered with 30,000 libraries in over 40 countries. If material is checked out to someone else, you will still have to put a hold on the material to obtain when it becomes available. Find it at <https://www.overdrive.com>.

Video

- The Great War is a weekly series, covering every week of the war as that week reaches its 100th anniversary. It is available on YouTube at www.youtube.com/user/TheGreatWar.
- British Pathe touts itself as the "finest newsreel archive in the world." Boasts 85,000 films from 1896 to 1976. You can find this at www.britishpathe.com or www.youtube.com/user/britishpathe.

E-Books

- Amazon is the behemoth. Apple iBooks and Google Books are also players. Many public domain titles are available in Google Books.

- To be aware of sales, especially on your Amazon Wish List, consider using eReader IQ at www.ereaderiq.com.
- Open Library has e-books, many of which are Public Domain at <https://openlibrary.org>.
- Amazon Kindle Unlimited was released in 2014. Service allows you to borrow from more than 1 million books, but only 10 at a time. You can keep any of those books indefinitely. There is a $9.99 monthly subscription for this service.
- Scribd has expanded to include audio books. Costs $8.99 per month. You can find this at www.scribd.com.

All of these resources can help you fill in the historical information associated with the times and era of your ancestors. Family research can be so much more than just dates. Add more to your ancestors by learning about the historical times when they were alive.

BOOKS IN PRINT

We have added The Best of Reclaiming Kin to our circulating collection. The author of the book is Robyn N. Smith. It was self-published in 2015 and was added to our collection in early 2016. The call number of the book is NEW 929.3 SMITH, R. The book is available to check out from our circulating collection on the 2nd floor of our library. The book has been initially cataloged as a "NEW" book for the initial 6 month purchase after we have added it to our collection. All of the "newly" added non-fiction books resides on some special shelving on the 2nd floor of our library near the "Ask Us" desk.

I was able to find a review of this book at the Dick Eastman site that was done by Bobbi King.

The review follows:

The following book review was written by Bobbi King:

The Best of Reclaiming Kin

by Robyn N. Smith. Self-published. 2015. 285 pages.

Robyn Smith writes a blog called Reclaiming Kin at <http://www.reclaimingkin.com>.

She's a busy gal, I counted over one hundred titles on her blog, covering:

- Evaluating Evidence ("I Found You Mary Neal: Analysis Uncovers An Identity")
- Census Records ("Is The Wife Really the Mother of all Those Children?")
- Vital Records ("A White Father: Direct Evidence")
- Probate Records ("Henry's Slaves: One in a Million")
- Slave Research ("There Were No "Good" Slaveowners")
- Slaveowner Research ("Mind of the Slaveowner")
- Reconstruction Era Research ("Freedmens Bureau Records Online")
- Records, Resources and Tools ("Tips on Using World War Draft Registrations")
- Court Records ("Alabama Convict Records")
- Tips and Training ("The Civil War of Source Citations")
- Writing Your History ("Ideas for Writing Your Family History")
- Newspapers ("Black Newspapers Break a Brick Wall!")
- Cemeteries ("Clustering at the Cemetery")
- Bible Records ("Biblically Speaking")

Reclaiming Kin is a compilation of what she considers the best of her blog posts. Over eighty posts are arranged into five broad chapters: Records and Resources, Evidence Analysis, Slave Research, Research Tips, and Robyn's Family Research.

There are nearly two hundred images of photographs, documents, newspaper posters, and newspaper ads. There are photographs of people and places on nearly every page, emphasizing the narrative and illustrating the points.

I know very little about African-American research, but this book is so engaging that I found myself reading through the articles and lingering on the old photos. It's a very interesting book.

This is an excellent research guide covering a wide variety of resources and topics for the genealogist seeking clues in doing African American genealogy.

The Best of Reclaiming Kin by Robyn N. Smith may be purchased on the author's web site at <http://www.reclaimingkin.com/the-best-of-reclaiming-kin-blog-book> as well as from Amazon at <http://goo.gl/VHMBQv>.

Evernote Defends User Data Security and Transparency (March 4, 2016)

Dick Eastman · March 4, 2016 · Cloud Services · 2 Comments

I have written a number of times about the note-taking application called Evernote. (See <https://duckduckgo.com/?q=site%3Aeogn.com+evernote> for a list of my past articles about Evernote.) Indeed, Evernote is a very popular application amongst genealogists and for good reasons: it is an excellent method of keeping track of all the scraps of information that genealogists typically accumulate when researching family history.

EVERNOTE

One of the big concerns about using any application that stores data online is security. Is your personal information safe and secure from identity thieves, credit card scammers, and government snoops? It is reassuring to read a recent article from the folks at Evernote, detailing the security of your personal data when stored in Evernote. It says, in part:

We created Evernote to be your digital brain. Shortly after we set that as our goal, we wrote our 3 Laws of Data Protection to codify these principles:

1. Your Data is Yours
2. Your Data is Protected
3. Your Data is Portable

Our 3 Laws inform virtually every decision we make, and we believe they are worth fighting for. We're a repository for ideas, inspiration, and knowledge; everything from the outline for the novel you're writing to the business goals for an entire organization. We know that if you are going to save your thoughts, ideas, and plans in Evernote, you have to trust that we will safeguard them for you.

The ideas you store in Evernote are also protected by national and state laws and legal processes. And we believe that no one—not an individual, a government, or a court, should have access to your private notes in ways that go beyond those laws.

That's why Evernote is standing with Apple and other technology companies to protect the security of user data. In the interest of promoting trust and transparency, Evernote is signing on as an amicus curiae ("friend of the court") on a legal brief to be filed today in support of Apple's motion to vacate a court order compelling it to assist the FBI in bypassing security features to access an encrypted iPhone. Also joining the brief are Amazon.com, Box, Cisco Systems, Dropbox, Facebook, Google, Microsoft, Mozilla, Nest Labs, Pinterest, Slack, Snapchat, WhatsApp, and Yahoo.

The full article is available in the Evernote Blog at <https://goo.gl/UrWNVz>.

I continue to use Evernote multiple times every day for genealogy purposes and for a lot of other things as well. It is one of my most-used applications. It is reassuring to know that my personal information is secure.

RootsMagic Adds Direct Import of Family Tree Maker Files (March 8, 2016)

Dick Eastman · March 8, 2016 · Software · 2 Comments

Big news for anyone looking to switch from Family Tree Maker to another genealogy program: RootsMagic has added the capability to directly import Family Tree Maker databases without the use of GEDCOM.

Indeed, GEDCOM import has always been an option in RootsMagic but GEDCOM is an imperfect solution. GEDCOM frequently loses data. The new capability added to RootsMagic 7.1 avoids the problem.

Quoting the RootsMagic Blog at <http://blog.rootsmagic.com/?p=2668>:

Since Ancestry's announcement that they were parting ways with their Family Tree Maker software, thousands of FTM users have found a new home in RootsMagic. One of the first questions they have is, "How do I get my data from FTM into RootsMagic?"

Until today, the answer has always been through a GEDCOM file. But GEDCOM files from Family Tree Maker, while mostly effective, were often lacking data and details only found in the original file. Plus it added an extra step in the conversion process.

That's why we're excited to announce today's release of RootsMagic 7.1. In addition to various tweaks and fixes, this update adds the ability to directly import any Family Tree Maker file.

And by "any" Family Tree Maker file, we really mean it. RootsMagic can directly import:

- Family Tree Maker 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, and 2014 for Windows (*.ftm, *.ftmb)
- Family Tree Maker 3 for Mac (*.ftm, *.ftmb)
- Family Tree Maker 2010 and 2012 for Mac (*.ftmm, *.ftmd)
- Classic Family Tree Maker Files (*.ftw)

In fact, RootsMagic can import a bigger variety of Family Tree Maker files than any single version of Family Tree Maker itself.

Further details, including step-by-step instructions, are given in the RootsMagic Blog at <http://blog.rootsmagic.com/?p=2668>.

Here is some genealogy humor I found at a blog called GeneaMusings (www.geneamusings.com) that is authored by Randy Seaver. I have searched through his blog using the term "funny names". I have previously included "funny" names of people. This time I found he has some links to what are "funny" names of towns in England.

The link to Randy's post on the inclusion of all of the "funny" names of towns of England can be found at:
